

Patricia Kullberg, MD, MPH

patriciakullberg.com

Current Occupation:	Author of historical fiction and memoir
Prior Employment:	1988-2011 Medical Director Staff Physician	Multnomah County Health Department Portland, Oregon
	1987-1988 Staff Physician	Outside-In Sociomedical Aid Station Portland, Oregon
	1987-1988 Health Officer	Cowlitz-Wahkiakum Counties District Longview, Washington
	1984-1987 Staff Physician	Kaiser-Permanente Portland, Oregon
Education/ Degrees	1982-1984 MPH	Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholars University of Washington Seattle, Washington
	1979-1982	Family Medicine Residency University of California Davis Sacramento, California
	1975-1979 MD Magna Cum Laude	Oregon Health Sciences University Portland, Oregon
Licenses/ Certificates	1981-2013	Board Certification American Board of Family Practice
	1984-2013	Licensed as Physician and Surgeon State of Oregon
Honors/Awards	1974	Phi Beta Kappa University of Oregon
	1979	Alpha Omega Alpha Best Senior Clinician Award Oregon Health Sciences University
	1979	Scholastic Achievement Award American Medical Women's Association
	1997	First Place, Science and Health Reporting Non-Daily Newspapers Oregon Society of Professional Journalists
	2002	Summer Fellowship Recipient Fishtrap Writers Workshop
	2020	Charles A. Preuss Distinguished Alumnae Award OHSU

Patricia Kullberg, MD MPH

Selected Publications

“How Racism Gets Baked into Medical Decisions,” Science for the People Online, December 21, 2020, <https://magazine.scienceforthepeople.org/web-extras/racism-medicine-naomi-nkinsi-interview/>

“Methanol Refineries, Citizen Scientists and Doughnuts,” Street Roots, December 16, 2020, <https://www.streetroots.org/news/2020/12/16/opinion-methanol-refineries-citizen-scientists-and-doughnuts>

“The Life and Death of Vanport: 70 Years after the Flood,” Street Roots, April 2-26, 2018, Portland, Oregon, <https://www.streetroots.org/news/2018/04/20/life-and-death-vanport-70-years-after-flood>

“A Clinic of Last Resort,” The Timberline Review, Winter-Spring, 2018

On the Ragged Edge of Medicine: Doctoring Among the Dispossessed, (Oregon State University Press, 2017), a memoir

Girl in the River, (Bygone Era Books, 2015), a novel

“A Medical Sea Change”, Women’s Review of Books, 31(4): 7-8, 2014

“Forget About Florence Nightingale”, VoiceCatcher 08, Portland, Oregon (first chapter of unpublished novel), 2008

“Cold Bones”, LitSite, University of Alaska, current on-line publication (short story)

“Narratives in Medicine”, LitSite, University of Alaska, current on-line publication (personal essay)

“Ragged Edge of Medicine”, Portland Alliance, six part series, 17 (6-11), 1997-98 (winner of First Place, Science and Health Reporting for Non-daily Newspapers, Oregon Society of Professional Journalists, 1997)

“Taking the Cure”, Portland Alliance, 11 (3), 1991 (winner of Third Place, Science and Health Reporting for Non-daily Newspapers, Oregon Society of Professional Journalists, 1991)

“Social Visions and Social Control: The Evolution Medical Thought in Postwar Hungary,” International Journal of Health Services, 16 (3) : 391-408, 1986

“Reforming Health Care in Hungary”, Social Science and Medicine, 21(8) : 849-855, 1985 (with co-author Csaszi, Lajos)